OVERVIEW

This CLE discusses legal issues associated with the international movement of art and cultural property in Egypt. We explore individual and group ownership in items of community significance. Over the course of two weeks, we will tour Egyptian artistic and cultural property sites while discussing their legal significance. The focus will be on Egyptian cultural topics, their theft and the efforts at repatriation within the context of international and Egyptian law. Within Egypt, some guest lectures will be given by Egyptologists and lawyers specializing in Egyptian law. To complete this class, participants must attend and participate in all group and individual exercises. The dates and times may shift due to demands of the tour.

The primary intended audience for this CLE is attorneys. This course has been approved by the New Mexico Continuing Legal Education Board for 24 general credits.
